WILDERNESS WALK - The highlight of Saturday's Monson Summerfest was the kickoff of the third annual Wilderness Walk for Warriors as eight volunteers started a 110-mile hike to the top of Mount Katahdin. This year's theme was "Flags of Honor" as hikers attached flags representing military, veterans and law enforcement officers to their backpacks. A convoy of Patriot Riders motorcycles escorted the hikers from Bangor to Monson where members of the Greenville and Monson American Legion Posts treated them to a barbecue. Pictured, front row, from left, are hikers Trevor Taylor of Shawnee, Okla.; Justin Hazlett of Levant and Mike Beaulieu of Durham. Back row: Danielle Lombard of Caribou, Chris Robinson of Sherman Station, Roberto Gonzales of Brewer, C.J. Bartlett of Fryeburg, and Wilderness Warriors co-founder Tim Robinson of Levant. Open Farm Day in Piscataquis is July 24

DOVER-FOXCROFT - The Maine Department of Agriculture, Conservation and Forestry is hosting the 27th Annual Open Farm Day on Sunday, July 24.

Open Farm Day is an annual family adventure in which farms throughout all 16 counties open their gates to offer the public an opportunity to learn about Maine's diverse agricultural community. Many farms will have demonstrations, displays, farm-raised products for sale and animals and crops to experience.

In Piscataquis County, two farms will welcome the public for Open Farm Day. Spruce Mill Farm at 324 Sangerville Line Road in Dover-Foxcroft will be open to the public from 10:00AM to 1:00PM. Spruce Mill Farm, owned by Dustin and Natasha Colby, is a small, sustainable farm with mixed vegetables, meat birds, laying hens, and pastured pork. The farm provides the produce and meats for their in-town farm store, CSA and local restaurants. Come see how they keep up with the local food demand! For more information and directions, visit www.sprucemillfarm.com and www.facebook.com/SpruceMillFarm/.

Ripley Farm at 62 Merrills Mills Road in Dover-Foxcroft will be open from 1:00PM to 4:00PM. Gene and Mary Margaret Ripley would like families to visit and get an inside view of their working organic farm, crops, fields and high tunnel, including a demonstration of the tools and techniques they use to produce three acres of Maine Organic Farmers And Gardeners Association (MOFGA) certified organic vegetables, flowers, herbs and perennial/medicinal plants. Mary Margaret would like you to "bring the kids to say hi to our young pigs and chickens, and take home some of our delicious produce or a gorgeous flower bouquet!" For more information and directions visit www.ripleyorganicfarm.com and <https://www.facebook.com/RipleyFarm/>

On Open Farm Day you can meet your Piscataquis County farmers and see where your food comes from! To learn more about Open Farm Day and participating farms throughout Maine visit http://www.maine.gov/daef/ard/market_promotion/open_farm_day.shtml/.

by Mike Lange

GREENVILLE - Kevin Mannix came across as a happy-go-lucky meteorologist who interacted well with the on-air staff at WLBZ and WCSH television for over 25 years.

Off-camera, however, Mannix battled depression and lack of self-esteem for most of his adult life. "I identify as an ACOA: an adult child of an alcoholic," he said during an appearance at Shaw Public Library in Greenville last week. "During one eight-year stretch, I attended eight different schools. Sometimes we moved in the middle of the night, so I couldn't tell my friends that I'd never see them again. So after a few times, I said 'Why make friends if you're going to lose them?' It was pretty painful."

Mannix said that he had never intended to talk about his struggles publicly until he met his wife, Linda Rota, a social worker who also had similar challenges from different causes. "The reason I didn't want to talk about it wasn't because I was afraid of losing my job or something like that," he said. "I didn't say anything because I thought no one would care - it wouldn't matter to you how I felt."

But in 2013, the TV stations wanted Mannix to expand his presence away from the weather maps "because I was getting stale," as he put it.

When he suggested that he host a series on his struggles as an ACOA, "They were thrilled," he said. "They were interested in doing public service programming on depression, but didn't have a 'face' behind it. So I volunteered mine."

Ten minutes after the first segment aired, the television stations received over 100 emails and Facebook messages, Mannix said.

Eventually, Mannix and his wife decided to collaborate on a book, "Weathering Shame." The purpose of the book was simply to bring the problems of depression and lack of self-esteem out in the open and

Summer Drama Camp is at the Center Theatre

DOVER-FOXCROFT - The first session of the Center Theatre for the Performing Arts' Summer Drama Camp will be performing The Fairy Tale Network by John Woodard, directed by David Murray, on Friday, July 22nd at 6pm, admission is by donation. The second session of Drama Camp, performing Totally Terrific Tale Tales, written and directed by Bobby Keniston, starts on Monday, August 1st and space is still available.

"Summer Drama Camp is our longest running program," Said Patrick Myers, the Center Theatre's Executive Director, "It was started by Jayne Lello, one of the founding members of the Center Theatre's Board. It is a great experience for kids of all ages as they learn to work together on a play, make new friends, and have a lot of fun." Camp is held weekdays from 8am to 1pm at the East Sangerville Grange with the final performance at the Center Theatre.

Anyone wishing to learn more about drama camp or enroll in the second session, can call the Center Theatre at 564-8943 or stop by during regular business hours which are 10am to 4pm, Monday through Friday. The Center Theatre is a nonprofit performing arts center dedicated to making the arts a part of life in the Maine Highlands. This year marks the 10th anniversary of the theater reopening its doors to produce affordable entertainment, arts and education.

"Reduce the shame and stigma in our society," Rota said. Rota said that her mother, who had been "in and out of a mental hospital," committed suicide when Rota was seven. "Fortunately, my dad raised us through some very tough times. He never told me to keep it (mom's suicide) a secret, but I always struggled about bringing it up if someone asked about her," she said.

Rota said and her husband both sought professional counseling, but emphasized that she wasn't necessarily promoting it. "We both believe in it because it helped us," she said. "But we just want to encourage people to share their feelings, even with a neighbor, friend or minister. There isn't any set method of dealing with these issues."

Rota noted that people in the public eye like her husband have a unique problem trying to be "two people. Once he got off the air, his anxiety and depression ran his life."

Mannis said the "first step" - admitting there's a problem - is the toughest. "Sometimes, I take a step backwards," he said. "But I've never felt as bad as I did in the beginning."

"Weathering Shame" is available at several Maine bookstores, at Amazon.com or via www.weatheringshame.com.

Dinsmore appointed Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor

by Mike Lange
DEXTER - Denise Dinsmore has learned to "never say never" again. When she left Dexter as a teenager, she said that she'd never move back, even though her family has its roots in the community.
But 13 years ago, she returned; and 10 years ago, she joined Dexter Sunrise Kiwanis Club.
Next month, she'll attend the New England District Kiwanis Convention in Cromwell, Conn. where she'll be installed as Division 2 Lieutenant Governor.
"This past year, I was at a Three Rivers Kiwanis Club meeting in Milo and I was nominated for Lieutenant Governor," she said. "I was overwhelmed and was not sure I could do this job like our past Lieutenant Governors have. But I said yes. As I look ahead, I feel I'll need support but I'll give it my best."
Dinsmore will succeed Dave Pullen of Milo, a member of Three Rivers Kiwanis.

A Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor is the leader of a group of clubs in a specific geographical area. Division 2 is comprised of Dexter Sunrise, Dover-Foxcroft, Moosehead (Greenville), Orono-Old Town,

Three Rivers, Bangor Breakfast Brewer and Hampden. "As you can see, I'll have many miles to travel and many people to meet Kiwanian you need to 'share it, love it and do it.' With the help of my Kiwanis family, we'll have a fun year."

Dinsmore's stepfather, Rodney "Jake" Page was born and raised in Dexter where he married Dinsmore's mother, June. "I attended school in Dexter for one year before we moved to Rumford where my stepfather taught school," she said.

Dinsmore said that after she graduated from high school, she got married but "had no clue what I would do for work. Later, my sons Michael and Christopher were born and I moved to Bangor and attended Bangor Community College."

She spent most of her adult life in Bangor working in social services before she started managing group homes. "I also provided a home for a young lady I worked with that had many challenges and she was part of our family until her death," Dinsmore recalled. "Mary-Ann was a young lady with Downs Syndrome and she had a smile that would melt your heart."

Dinsmore eventually became the owner of Home Living in Hampden, an agency that provides housing for adults with cognitive disabilities, and will be retiring at the end of this year.

She also served on the Dexter Town Council for three years.

"Dexter has become my home with my partner, Maggie Swan, and our four-legged 'kids,'" Dinsmore said. "In my free time, I enjoy camping, reading, working in the yard and - naturally - Kiwanis activities."

Their neighbors are Dinsmore's mother, June; sister, Karal and brother-in-law, Eric. "We call it the family compound," she said.

While their family ministry and musical heritage spans over 30 years, it wasn't until 1992 that the Keffers were introduced to Southern Gospel radio fans with their national debut. And in the years since, they've continued to garner much attention with their unique blend of family harmony with a youthful approach.

In the past 30 years of their full time traveling ministry, the Keffers have enjoyed a wide variety of ministry opportunities. Whether it's in a revival meeting, a family life conference, a youth camp, or a concert, one thing is certain, the name of Jesus will be exalted and the gospel will be clearly presented!

Greenville's Holy Family Parish announces new capital campaign

GREENVILLE — Holy Family Parish in Greenville has announced the start of the "Beginning a New Century of Faith" capital campaign, with a goal of constructing a new church, parish hall and offices, and renovating the current rectory.

"We've been talking about it for probably eight or 10 years that the building has been deteriorating and we've been putting Band-Aids on it trying to keep it. But it's gotten to the point that it's better to invest in a new building," said Elizabeth Foote, a member of the parish's development committee. "We have a lot of older parishioners. We're an aging community, and they can't come to the Mass because of the stairs."

"It would be a lot to repair it," said Steve Blodoue, chair of the parish's building committee. "We're thinking in excess of a million dollars. But then, you're still left with a century-old church that is difficult to get in, and that isn't designed for the community."

For that reason, in addition to being energy efficient and containing enhancements like radiant heat in the floor, the new building will be one floor with no steps.

"I think because of how it's going to be on one floor, we will have new members," said Cecile Shields, who serves on the parish's building and development committees. "I think that definitely will make a difference for us absolutely."

The building, which will be constructed at the current church site on 145 Pritham Avenue, will also contain a new parish hall and offices. Across a newly paved parking lot, the current rectory will undergo a variety of interior and exterior renovations and the installation of an attached garage.

During the planning process, project organizers solicited input from many parishioners and discovered that replicating the look and feel of the current church was important to them.

"I think that parishioners are all going to be pleased that it's going to have a lot of character, and it's going to have a lot of history that it will carry forward with it," said Foote.

The new building will preserve the parish's history and tradition while offering new amenities. All 18 nave and sanctuary stained glass windows will be removed, restored, and reinstalled in the new church in the same locations.

The original confessionals and woodworking, tabernacle, and baptismal font will be incorporated. A beautiful spire will have the current cross memorial reinstalled at its top. The Holy Family statue will be placed on the façade of a covered entrance. The church bell will be installed in the belfry over the entrance. The windows, bell, and spire will have the ability to be lit at night.

The narthex, or the gathering area between the entrance and the church, will be warmly lit and appointed so that it is welcoming to all.

Inside the new church, 20 white oak pews, which once stood in the Good Shepherd Sisters' convent in Old Orchard Beach, were gifted to the parish by Good Shepherd Parish in Saco. They will be installed over new carpeting with increased spacing between the pews.

The parish hall will have the capacity to seat over 150 people and will include a new kitchen.

"We believe that the parish hall will be the nicest room of its kind in town," said Blodoue. "We look forward to the community using it."

The initial project timetable calls for the demolition of the current church in May of 2017. The construction of the new church, sanctuary, and nave - or central part of the building - would be completed by December of 2017. In 2018, the new parish offices and parish hall would be constructed inside the new church building, and improvements would be made to the rectory.

In total, cost projections are about $1.7 million, but fundraising is already underway. A construction loan will be provided by the Diocesan Savings & Loan, Catholic Extension, a national fundraising organization which supports and strengthens dioceses across the country, will provide an additional grant; and individual donors have already contributed over $675,000.

Keeping the project on schedule would allow the new church to be opened by Christmas of 2017, which is the 100th anniversary of the parish.

If individuals or businesses would like to make a contribution designated towards "Beginning a New Century of Faith" through the construction of the new church, contact the parish at 695-2262 or the Diocese of Portland's Office of Development at 321-7835.

Memorial donations can also be made in memory of a relative or friend, or in honor of a birthday or anniversary.

"(F)un if we didn't have to keep paying"

To the Editor:

Governor LePage continues to try to top himself in wasting Maine's money for his personal agenda. I just read the lawsuit that he has filed against President Obama. Specifically, he regards the information sent to public schools by the Department of Education on interpreting civil rights for transgendered students as offensive. His suit states that these interpretations are "actions taken without observance of procedure required by law." In simple words, the President should not act without the consent of the Congress and Attorney General and Maine taxpayers need to pay the seventeen lawyers filing the suit to remind the President of his limits. But did the Governor ask the Maine legislature to approve this cost? No. In fact Maine's Attorney General advised against his action. So the Governor is acting all by himself to complain that another elected official cannot act all by himself.

To top it off, the Governor has argued that he himself cannot be sued by Mark Eves for pressuring the Hinkley School to rescind their job offer by withholding money appropriated for the school. His defense? An elected official cannot be sued for anything he does in his official capacity (the "Immunity clause"). The Governor seems to be completely unaware of irony. This contradictory foolishness would be more fun to watch if we didn't have to keep paying the legal bills he is running up.

Sincerely,
Dave Pearson

Sebec Lake 2016 Lake Mapping Project underway

SEBEC - Cloudy skies, cool temps and rough water did not deter the Sebec Lake Invasive Plant Patrol from starting the 2016 mapping season this past weekend.

"It turns out those cloudy skies are perfect for viewing under the surface," said Brian Krause, team member and member of the faculty at the Foxcroft Academy. "There's far less glare and the equipment we use performs well even in rough water."

The team picked up in Newell Cove, where they initiated the mapping / monitoring effort last summer. After evaluating the 2015 sessions, the team is evolving their methods to better meet the specific conditions of Sebec Lake. "We tried something a bit different this session, putting the observer in the water, using the trunk scope walking along the shore out to about five feet deep," said Rudy Davis, Project director. "This person is shadowed by a recorder in a boat who makes a record of where vegetation is seen, what type, density, etc." Davis explained that this system worked very efficiently. A two person team was able to cover nearly a half mile of shoreline in about one hour. "We've observed that Sebec Lake, despite being one of the clearest, cleanest and deepest lakes in Maine, typically sees little or no vegetation between 6 - 7 feet of water depth. That makes it quite walkable."

The results of the latest session continue to be excellent. "No invasives found", Krause said, "just healthy, native vegetation common to Maine lakes." Krause teaches in the science department at Foxcroft Academy and is getting students interested in the environment involved in the project.

The team currently has five more mapping sessions scheduled for this summer. "We have ambitious goals" said Davis. Anyone interested in joining the effort can contact Davis or Krause via the Sebec Lake Association website at www.sebelakeassoc.com.

Free Birthday Party at the Center Theatre

DOVER-FOXCROFT - The Center Theatre will be opening its doors at 2pm on Saturday the 23rd for a free 10th Birthday party as part of their 10th anniversary celebration. There will be cake and ice cream in the lobby and games for the kids. Attendees will get a sneak preview of one of the performances in the Theatre's Summer Encore show, followed at 3pm by a free showing of The Lego Movie sponsored by the American Legion.

"We wanted to give something back to the kids and families that have supported us over these 10 years," said Patrick Myers, the Center Theatre's Executive Director. "With the help of the American Legion we were able to offer a free showing of a great kid's movie along with some other fun birthday party activities." The birthday party is the first of a series of events celebrating the Theatre's 10th Anniversary. The next event is a 10th Anniversary Gala being held on Thursday, August 4th. The Gala will start at 6pm with Dinner at the Mill Event Center, followed by a dessert buffet at the Theatre provided by the famous bakers of the East Sangerville Grange, and the evening will conclude with a preview of the first act of the Theatre's summer Encore performance.

The Encore performance will be performed the first two weekends in August and will bring together some favorite songs and scenes from the past 10 years of Center Theatre productions. Tickets for the Gala and Encore show are available online at www.centertheatre.org, by calling the Theatre at 564-8943, or by dropping by 20 East Main Street between 10am and 4pm Monday through Friday.

The Theatre has also set up an Anniversary gift registry for those who want to get the Theatre a gift to celebrate the milestone. The online registry can be found by going to MyRegistry.com and searching for Center Theatre or visiting the Theatre's website at www.centertheatre.org. "The Registry is a way for people to choose what they're donating to the Theatre and buy something that the Theatre really needs," Myers said. The Center Theatre is a nonprofit performing arts center dedicated to making the arts a part of life in the Maine Highlands. This year marks the 10th anniversary of the theater reopening its doors to produce affordable entertainment, arts and education.

Expanded AT visitor center opens in Monson

MONSON - A newly-expanded, full-time Appalachian Trail (A.T.) Visitor Center is now open at Monson Center for Community and Commerce, also known as the former Monson Elementary School.

It will help hikers prepare for the unique circumstances and environment in the last section of the trail, which extends through the boundaries of Baxter State Park (BSP).

The center will be staffed seven days a week through Oct. 16 by the Appalachian Trail Conservancy (ATC) and the Maine Appalachian Trail Club (MATC).

At the center, hikers will learn about guidelines for hiking into BSP and the permits north-bounders now need for the final climb of Katahdin, the northern terminus of the A.T.

Northbound thru-hikers were previously exempt from BSP permit rules, while other categories of hikers and campers were required to obtain permits and reservations for their stay in the Park.

The ATC has developed those guidelines to help preserve the special nature of the Trail and manage the increasing number of long-distance hikers entering BSP. Strategically located in the last town northbound thru-hikers encounter before entering BSP, the visitor center allows them to pre-register for the Baxter Long Distance Hiker Permit cards and make plans for their stay in BSP and their ascent of Katahdin.

The ATC is dedicated to increasing its presence on the A.T. in order to assist and educate hikers. The organization has developed a number of initiatives to minimize the impact of large groups on the A.T. in Baxter.

"These are common-sense principles that most hikers know but are particularly important to be reminded of as we all strive to preserve the hiking experience for everyone and the unique alpine environment on Katahdin," said Ron Tipton, Executive Director/CEO of the ATC. "Working closely with partner groups such as the Friends of Baxter State Park, Appalachian Long Distance Hikers Association and Baxter State Park staff, the Appalachian Trail Conservancy developed these smart-hiking guidelines to help preserve the Appalachian Trail experience for all who wish to hike the A.T."

In addition to educating hikers and providing information about local hiking opportunities, the visitor center has other benefits as well. For example, the center will support tourism in Piscataquis County and help Monson continue its critical role as an Appalachian Trail Community for all varieties of hikers and visitors interested in learning more about the A.T.

Moosehead development group awarded grant

GREENVILLE - The Elmina B. Sewall Foundation, based in Freeport, recently announced the Moosehead Lake Region Economic Development Corporation (MLREDC) will receive a two-year $175,000 grant.

The award is designated for development and implementation of two of the MLREDC's upcoming projects: a comprehensive regional wayfinding signage system for vehicles and pedestrians, and a regional master plan to guide the area's future growth and development.

The Sewall Foundation made the award after a thorough review of the MLREDC's application to the "Healthy People Healthy Places" program. Sewall Foundation officials noted in their award letter that the funds in this program support organizations that use "a deliberate, unified approach to enhancing well-being, prosperity, and resilience of people, communities and nature."

MLREDC's work, since its establishment in 2013, has sought to grow and sustain local businesses, attract and create new jobs, and enhance the economy of the Moosehead Lake Region.

"The Sewall grant award represents a game-changing opportunity for our board and our region," said Luke Muzzy, president of MLREDC, "and will provide much-needed resources to see our Branding Initiative and Economic Development Program through development and implementation."

The MLREDC is vetting contractors for the wayfinding sign project and anticipates the first phase will be installed by this fall.

MLREDC is in the process of issuing a request for proposals for regional planning consultants and anticipates the planning process will begin within a few months. The public is welcome and encouraged to participate in the upcoming planning workshops.

12th annual Piscataquis River Festival highlight's Guilford's Bicentennial

by Mike Lange

GUILFORD – The Piscataquis River Festival has been the biggest summer social event and drawing card to the town of Guilford for the past 12 years.

Recent parade themes included the Redneck Riverfest, Duck Dynasty and last year's colorful Wizard of Oz.

This year, however, organizers predict that the Piscataquis River Festival will be bigger and better than ever since the full day of activities on Saturday, July 30 coincides with the town's 200th anniversary.

The parade will be larger, there will be more bands – including an appearance by an Elvis Presley tribute artist – and more family-friendly events including a pie-eating contest, the return of the pig scramble, and a giant fireworks display at the finale.

Sales of bicentennial t-shirts and commemorative coffee mugs at the town office are brisk and tickets for the annual rubber duck race are also going well. Ducks are $1, $2 and $5 each and the top finishers in each category earn cash prizes.

The day begins with breakfast at the United Methodist Church at 7 a.m., followed by a children's fun run and adult's 5K road race starting at the town's athletic field.

Guilford Memorial Library will host a book sale from 9 a.m. to noon and various food and craft vendors will be set up on the riverfront adjacent to the athletic field on Water Street.

The Bicentennial Parade begins at 9:30 a.m., the U.S. Post Office will have a special bicentennial cancellation booth set up and the official 200th anniversary ceremony and dedication gets under way at 11 a.m. at the athletic field.

Musical entertainment begins at 11 a.m. at the gazebo with the Sebasticook and H.J. Crosby Bands, and "Elvis" takes the stage from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., courtesy of Lovell's Guilford Hardware.

Maine Highlands Federal Credit Union will host the first-ever River Festival youngster's pie eating contest behind the tennis courts starting at 1 p.m.

After a one-year hiatus, the Herring Brothers Pig Scramble will return to the riverfront at 1:30 p.m. When organizers first planned the event in 2014, they figured on 50 to 60 kids participating. However, on the day of the scramble, nearly 150 youngsters signed up and twice that many spectators lined the fenced-off area to watch them catch the critters.

The River Festival Duck Race begins at 3 p.m. and the "lucky ducks" that come across the finish line first will pay prizes of $50, $125 and $250.

Country music band Cold Blue Steel entertains on stage from 1-5 p.m., followed by classic rockers Out of the Blue from 5-9 p.m., both sponsored by Maine Highlands FCU.

The evening is capped off with fireworks at the athletic field after dark. Updates and more information will be posted at the Guilford, Maine Bicentennial Facebook page.

Weekly newspapers captured Guilford's news and social life

by Mike Lange

GUILFORD – As Guilford celebrates its bicentennial this month, many people recall the town's weekly newspapers that kept residents informed and entertained for more than six decades.

While records are somewhat spotty, the Guilford Recorder – later followed by the Guilford Citizen and Guilford Register – published from 1890 to approximately 1951.

The last known office of the Guilford Register was at the corner of Oak and South Main streets, according to Town Manager Tom Goulette. "There's a little park in that spot today," he said. "But back in those days, downtown Guilford was booming. You had enough local businesses to keep a newspaper going."

Still, the editions from the early 1900s had a lot of space to fill after publishing columns about the Knights of Pythias and Valley Grange, the municipal court news, railroad schedules, weather reports and obituaries.

So the inside pages often included state and national news, focusing on politics and – in the case of the Guilford Recorder – events of World War I.

One issue from the 1930s had a photo that could have been culled from today's headlines. Police in Baltimore were charged with beating up a reporter who had the misfortune of taking a photo of a stolen car, thus "hindering the investigation."

The Guilford Citizen and Guilford Register carried a sizeable number of ads in the issues on file at the Guilford Historical Society Museum not only from Guilford, but surrounding communities.

If you were looking for a refrigerator back in the 1950s, you could buy or lease one from Central Maine Power Company or buy one outright from Western Auto for $159.95.

Longtime residents can point out where places like S. J. Jackson Company, Leslie Adkins' wagon shop, Charles Herring's slaughterhouse, Skinner's Furniture Store, Weatherbee's Hardware and the Gold Nugget Restaurant once stood.

Unfortunately, businesses in downtown Guilford were lost to a raging fire in 1969. "It took down a whole block of stores, including Koritsky's, a barbershop, shoe repair shop and Crockett's Bakery," Goulette said. "They made awesome jelly donuts."

Eventually, much of the downtown area Guilford was rebuilt. But people also started to find other sources of news during the "golden age" of television and expansion of zoned editions of daily newspapers into rural communities.

But for several years, residents could keep up with the local – and international news – through Guilford's weeklies.

It was also economical. A subscription to the Guilford Recorder was only $1 a year.

Rinnai®

Tankless Water Heaters

You don't use hot water 24 hours a day, but with a standard water heater, you heat and reheat the same water - even when you're sleeping.

The Rinnai tankless water heater is a more efficient way to heat quickly and will deliver an endless supply of hot water for as long as you need it. With the Rinnai tankless water heater, you only pay to heat water when you need it! Produce and supply endless streams of hot water to multiple outlets simultaneously without any fluctuation in temperature.

- Up to 50 percent more energy efficient than traditional gas water heaters - up to 70 percent more efficient than an electric water heater
- Shut-off automatically when the water supply is closed, providing significant energy savings
- Compact wall mounted units with a life expectancy of 25 years.
