HOT DOG FUNDRAISER - The Foxcroft Academy's boys soccer team pose with Will Wedge and Angela Ayala after a successful Hot Dog fundraiser.

Will's Shop 'n Save helps FA raise more than $1200 for athletic program

DOVER-FOXCROFT - A hot dog fundraiser held at Will's Shop 'n Save on October 18, raised $1,230 for Foxcroft Academy's athletic program. Will Wedge, owner of Will's Shop 'n Save, generously donated hot dogs, rolls, chips, and drinks for the fundraiser, and Pepsi donated soda cans. Coaches and players from FA's cheering squad and fall sports teams helped run the event, and Mr. Wedge noted how impressed he and his staff were with their "commitment and professional behavior."

The $1,230 was raised in just under six hours and represents a 23% increase over last year's event, which was previously the most successful fundraiser held at Will's. Since purchasing Shop 'n Save and moving to Dover-Foxcroft in 2011, Mr. Wedge has assisted Foxcroft Academy with sports boosters, project graduation, and championship dinners—helping students raise more than $8,000 in just three years. "Will's Shop 'n Save values the students at Foxcroft Academy and enjoys being a friend of the Academy," he said. "We will continue to support student-athletes and project graduation because it is the 'right' thing to do in our community."

Arnold Shorey, Head of School at Foxcroft Academy, is grateful for Mr. Wedge's support. "Will has done an incredible amount for our school," he said. "He has done so not because he was asked but because he truly believes in this community and feels that it is his job to give back when and where he can. We are very lucky to have him here."

Family Eyecare marks 35 years of providing medical eye care in Piscataquis County

DOVER-FOXCROFT - In the fall of 1979, Dr. David Frasz opened his office on the second floor of the old Mayo Hospital building, sharing it with his wife Dr. Lesley Fernow. They were among an influx of new physicians to the area after the "new" Mayo Hospital opened in 1978. Most of that original group of practitioners, such as doctors Richard Swett, Gary Parker, James Berry, Don Underwood and physician assistant Bill Bisbee, have since moved or retired but their contributions to the community endure.

"And Dr. Fernow and I are still here!" Frasz said. Although he plans to stop doing eye surgeries by the end of this winter, he will still maintain his busy office practice and refer those patients needing surgery to physicians best able to take care of their needs. "I've already spoken to some of my colleagues in Bangor. Our patients will be able to stay with our office, go to Bangor or elsewhere for their surgery, then return to our office as our patients if they wish to do so."

There were a few speed bumps opening his practice in 1979. "Both the general public and the hospital weren't quite sure what I was," Frasz laughed.

He is a board-certified ophthalmologist, a medical doctor and surgeon specializing in eye care. "They were very happy to have my wife, an internist, but they thought I just did glasses and eye exams. So there were delays in getting approval from the state to offer eye surgery at the hospital." This resulted in one seriously injured eye patient having to be transferred to another hospital. "Unfortunately this caused a delay of care." Frasz was upset and contacted the Bangor Daily News. "An article appeared on the front page the next day and approval from the state came very fast after that," he smiled.

Dr. Frasz' office is now located in the old Little Red School House building, at the corner of Route 7 and Lawrence St. where he and his assistants take care of surgical patients but also provide regular eye exams and prescriptions for glasses. His staff have been with him for many years and have the experience needed to handle a wide variety of patient problems and concerns.

"All of our medical assistants are certified," he noted. One of his staff, Lebra Bergeron, has been with him since the beginning. "Usually patients call and ask for Lebra, not me!" Frasz chuckled.

He said that the emphasis has always been on service, convenience and expert care.

Family Eyecare usually answers phone calls from patients the same day and saves space on the schedule for emergencies. MacInnes Optical offers glasses in its shop across the street.

Dr. Frasz also introduced to the area such innovations as combined cataract and glaucoma laser surgery. "It's been very rewarding. Some of our patients have been with us for 20 or 30 years," he added.

The office tries to keep fees reasonable, especially for patients without insurance. "Patients need to be careful. Occasionally they will be offered a surgery, particularly laser surgery, which their insurance might not cover. Then they are stuck with a considerable out-of-pocket expense," he warned.

Why has Dr. Frasz decided to continue his practice instead of simply retiring? He explained that he is "holding on" in order to try to attract another ophthalmologist to take over and to mentor and orient the new physician to the practice and the community.

"If I close the office, not only are my employees out of a job, but it would be very hard to re-establish a similar practice in the future." Frasz noted that the office equipment and instruments for measuring eyes makes ophthalmology the most expensive specialty to start up and maintain on a daily basis. "A service call for our laser costs $900, and that's before the cost of any parts," he said.

Mayo Regional Hospital is assisting Frasz in the search for another 'eye M.D.' but "it's difficult everywhere to get younger practitioners to move to outlying areas. Even to Bangor," he said. He has been recruiting now for 3 years. "There have been several very promising candidates but no takers."

Dr. Frasz insists upon a well-qualified candidate. "Interestingly, the most recent one was trained at the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota, which is one of the best training programs in the country." In the meantime, he has found an optometrist Dr. Alesia Higgins from Old Town to help him part-time with the office practice only, on Mondays. "She's very knowledgeable and has fifteen years of experience. Her patients love her. I was lucky she was available."

Dr. Frasz remains optimistic about eventually finding the ideal physician for the community as his replacement.

"While this process has been frustrating, I am confident we will find the perfect match for our community's needs. But until that time, I want to ensure all of my patients that we will continue to serve them in the reliable and caring manner they have come to expect from us. And again, I'm not leaving, I just won't be performing surgery after this winter," concluded Dr. Frasz.

Dover-Foxcroft Fall BOO-Nanza, October 31

DOVER-FOXCROFT - The Center Theatre will be working in conjunction with the Dover-Foxcroft Shiretown Homecoming Committee to present the Dover-Foxcroft Fall BOO-Nanza on October 31. "Being part of an activity that the entire community can enjoy is both a privilege and a great deal of fun. We have had a great time planning the 'Theatre of Terror' and are amazed by all the work that the Homecoming Committee does on events like this. It is a true labor of love, and we are honored to work with them on a project that will bring so much joy to so many people," says Center Theatre Executive Director Angela Bonacasa.

The Dover-Foxcroft Fall BOO-Nanza kicks off at 4:30 PM with a Kids Costume Parade. Those taking part should gather at Central Hall, and the parade will go down Main Street to the Downtown Parking lot, site of Freaky Fun & Games. Freaky Fun & Games will include games and entertainment for the entire family, at a cost of $3 per person. The Games begin at 5 p.m..

For those interested in something a little more spooky, the Center Theatre is sponsoring the "Theatre of Terror" starting at 6 p.m. Starting in the Theatre lobby, the tour will take visitors on a tour of the "haunted" Center Theatre. The cost for the Theatre of Terror is $5 per person, which includes entry to the Freaky Fun & Games.

After the conclusion of the Halloween activities, the Center Theatre will be the host of a live shadowcast of the Rocky Horror Picture Show at midnight. Sponsored by Dave's World, Dr. Dan, and the Center Coffee House, this show is geared toward mature audiences. Tickets for the performance are $10, and audience members are encouraged to attend in costume.

Additional information is available by calling the Center Theatre Box Office at 564-8943, stopping by the theatre at 20 E. Main Street, Dover-Foxcroft from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, or by going to the website at www.centertheatre.org.

Center Theatre "Spooky Movie Day" November 1

DOVER-FOXCROFT-In honor of Halloween, The Center Theatre is dubbing Saturday, November 1, "Spooky Movie Day." The day will feature two different takes on the horror genre. At 2 p.m., audiences can experience the silent film, The Phantom Of The Opera (1925) starring Lon Chaney. This movie will be shown as it was originally intended-with live musical accompaniment. Doug Protsik, director of Maine Fiddle Camp, will play the piano accompaniment using an original score he has created for the film. Doug's enthusiasm for silent movies has led him to work composing and recording original scores for silent film restorations for the Turner Classic Movies cable network. It is a uniquely Halloween experience, and people are encouraged to wear costumes if desired. While Phantom is a horror film, the degree of "horror" would be rated G by today's standards, and is fine for all ages. Tickets are $10 at the door, or $8 in advance, and for students, seniors, and Theatre members. Damnationland will be presented at 7 p.m. It is a "...genre-defying original works from Maine filmmakers that redefine the classic thriller and horror categories," said a spokesperson. "Now in its fifth year, the Damnationland 2014 program will feature world premieres of six short films produced in Maine by Mainers especially for the Halloween season. These are dark, surreal, and fantastic pieces and they offer film fans an excellent sampling of the talent producing independent film in Maine today. In less than two weeks into the 2014 tour, the films are a hit all over the state."

Moosehead Lake Fishing Report

by Tim Obrey

GREENVILLE - "I've never seen the lake so low!" and "I've never seen the lake so high!" are two statements we hear a lot in the Regional IFW office.

Anglers and lake residents are keenly aware of the changes in lake elevations since it impacts their ability to access the water, maintain their docks, and in general, impacts the aesthetics of the area. Hydropower operators on our larger impoundments like Moosehead Lake, Brassua Lake, and Indian Pond have obtained a federal license from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) and water quality certification from the State of Maine (DEP) to operate the dams. Their licenses include required minimum flows in the outlets and a range of operating flows during certain periods of the year. Lake elevation targets are also part of the agreements. The goal of a license is to balance the need for power generation with protection of the aquatic resources, providing recreational opportunities, and public safety (flood control). State and Federal agencies, as well as other interested groups are all part of the lengthy process to develop a hydropower license. Wilson Pond has a very small-capacity dam and they are not required to have a license but we have worked cooperatively with the past and present dam owners to develop an operating plan that protects the resources.

In general, there are a few goals we have as fisheries biologists regarding water level management. The first and most important goal is to protect the fish species and aquatic community. This is much different than "enhancing" the fisheries which we try to maximize as well. We must first ensure all life stages are protected, including spawning. Wild salmon and brook trout spawn in the streams and rivers in the fall. Their eggs are buried in the gravel and must survive over the winter until hatching in spring. Therefore, we typically require an attraction flow in September and early October to draw the fish into the rivers. A lower flow is required during the spawning to keep fish in the middle of the channel so when March rolls around and flows are typically at their lowest, the eggs remain submerged. A minimum flow that keeps the river channel wetted and provides nursery habitat is required in the winter. For waters like Moosehead Lake and Wilson Pond, we also request dam operators to draw the lake down in October to protect lake trout spawning. Lake trout spawn in the lake in mid to late October on wind swept shoals or shoreline containing large rocky substrate. Lake trout simply broadcast their eggs among the rocks in 4 to 5 feet of water. The eggs overwinter and hatch in early spring. So, it is optimal to have the lake elevation very low while spawning is occurring, then the lake can refill later in the fall. As long as the dam operator does not drop the lake more than 3 to 4 feet from the late fall lake elevation, the lake trout eggs will be protected.

So, when you see the exposed shoreline of a lake this time of year, it is because the dam operators are required to lower the lake as part of their license or agreement and it is for the benefit of the fisheries resources. It also provides for flood protection in the case of heavy fall rain and spring run-off. It is also a great opportunity for residents to inspect and repair their docks.

MAINE FALL CONFERENCE - Women from the Dover-Foxcroft branches of the General Federation of Women's Club and the Cosmopolitan Club recently attended the Maine Fall Conference in Waterville.

Local clubwomen attend GFWC Maine Fall Conference

By Anne H. Cress
DOVER-FOXCROFT - Eight women from Dover-Foxcroft attended the General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC) Maine Fall Conference at the Best Western Plus Hotel in Waterville on October 8 and 9, 2014 for their fall conference. Eighty women from around the state participated in this event. Attending from the D-F Miosac Club were Betsey Ryan, Minnie McCormick, Athalie Burke, Dorothy Tonick, Leona Dow, Vicki Moschella and Anne Cress. Attending from the D-F Cosmopolitan Club was Suzanne Raymond. The festivities began with a banquet on the evening of Wednesday, October 8. Following a delicious meal, entertainment was provided by "Mad Science of Maine - Fire and Ice Show".
The 2014-2016 GFWC Maine Administration's theme is, "Our Past Will Determine Our Future". Marjorie Goodwin, GFWC Maine President states, "What we as clubwomen do now, will affect our daughters and their daughters, just as what the clubwomen did before us has affected the clubwomen of today. We need to set a good example of what volunteerism can do for a community, so that future volunteers will be willing to work within their communities. Communities gain much with what clubwomen contribute in projects and dollars."

The President's Special Project is, "Elder Abuse Awareness". This is a sensitive subject that is all too often not addressed. It is hoped GFWC Maine clubwomen can help educate the public about how to recognize the symptoms of abuse and where to get help if needed. Members were encouraged to take part in the, "Meals on Wheels" program in, or near their communities. The elderly and the very young are the most vulnerable members of our society. In 2010, Domestic Violence Awareness and Prevention became the Signature Project for GFWC International. The banner hanging across Main Street in Dover-Foxcroft, proclaims October as, "Domestic Violence Awareness and Prevention" month. The banner proudly displays the GFWC logo.

Clubwomen heard from two very special speakers on the subject of elder abuse while at this wonderful Conference. The first speaker was Lynne Caswell, a staff attorney at the Maine Office of Aging and Disability Services, and is the State's Legal Services Developer. Lynne co-chairs the Maine Council on Elder Abuse Prevention, and chairs the Maine Elder Death Analysis Review Team. She has worked for DHHS since 2010, and assists on policy and legislative matters related to Maine's disabled and elder populations. Lynne oversees the Maine Long Term Care Ombudsman Program and Legal Services for the Elderly. We received much valuable information from this very determined and dedicated young attorney, who is actively advocating for our senior citizens. Our second special speaker was Nan Bell, an educator for the Family Violence Project since 1998. Her work is focused on raising awareness about the issue of domestic violence through trainings and presentations to community groups, colleges, local businesses and community systems in Kennebec and Somerset counties. Nan is a survivor of domestic violence, and speaks publicly about her experience in an effort to, "break the silence", that surrounds the issue of abuse in intimate partner relationships. Nan is truly a spellbinding and dynamic speaker who imparted much valuable information.

GFWC Maine State Chairman of several programs and committees provided updates on the Arts, Education, Public Issues, ESO, Conservation, Home Life, the GFWC Signature Project: Domestic Violence Awareness and Prevention, and International Outreach. Additionally, Chairmen from the Membership, Leadership, Legislation/Public Policy, Maine Youth Leadership, and the Educational Loan Fund Committees provided much valuable information to our clubwomen. We were all urged to continue providing support to these various committees through our monetary contributions, time, and projects.

Maureen Provencal, our GFWC Maine 2014 LEADS Ambassador, is a member of the GFWC Semper Fidelis Club of Skowhegan, Maine. Maureen gave an overview of her time spent in Chandler, Arizona during the GFWC Annual Convention held in June. LEADS is the acronym for, "Leadership, Education, and Development Seminar". The "LEADS" program is one of the most valuable programs GFWC has available for its members. One clubwomen from each of the fifty states is selected to represent their state each year at the GFWC Annual Convention. This seminar covers presentations on conflict resolution, mediation, public speaking skills, time management, and parliamentary procedures. It also covers tips and techniques for pursuing leadership opportunities. It was very apparent from Maureen's presentation that she had a wonderful time in Arizona, met some terrific forever friends, and developed some leadership skills that will benefit her and GFWC Maine for a lifetime!

Anne Cress, GFWC Maine Immediate Past State President, presented a talk of her time while in Arizona this past June attending the GFWC Annual Convention. She reported GFWC Maine received eight national awards for excellence at this year's Convention. Three awards were received in the areas of Domestic Violence Awareness and Prevention, one in Education, one in the Arts, and three awards in Photography. Anne told the GFWC Maine clubwomen how very proud she was to have received these awards on their behalf for all the hard work they had done over the past year. She spoke about the two tours made available to GFWC clubwomen, and of the fabulous time everyone had on these two trips. The first trip was a lifetime adventure to see the sights of the Grand Canyon. The second trip was to Sedona, also known as, "Red Rock Country". She will hold these memories dear to her heart for the rest of her life. Anne thanked the GFWC Maine clubwomen for their support, both emotionally and financially, during the 2012-2014 administration.

Suzanne Raymond, Chairman of GFWC Maine Leadership, put on a wonderful talk about what it means and takes to be in a GFWC Maine leadership role. As the talk continued, it took on a comedic nature, as Suzanne became an old southern type of character, much like some will remember as, "Moms Mabley". The laughter and tears, as Suzanne continued this role, was beyond any comedy act any of us has ever seen before! It was phenomenal, as is Suzanne!

Minnie McCormick, Chairman of Public Issues for GFWC Maine, presented a wonderful and informative talk about what we, as GFWC Maine clubwomen, can do to make a difference in our communities.

If any woman of any age is interested in becoming a member of a GFWC Maine Club to help others in their communities, please call 717-7576. Our national website is www.gfwc.org or our Maine website can be visited at www.gfwcmaine.org.

Joan donated a children's book that she signed to the Milo Library called Airplanes in the Garden which was published in 2011.
